A MESSAGE FROM THE EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

2017 marked a milestone year as we celebrated 25 years of working to improve child well-being. We thank you for your support knowing we could not have made this journey without you. Thanks to you, VOICES legacy will continue and Alabama’s children will be better because you cared. Our sincere thanks to each one of you.

On behalf of VOICES for Alabama’s Children, I extend my sincerest thanks and appreciation to our donors, organizational partners and advocates for your support and commitment in 2017. It was a banner year as we celebrated 25 years of advocating for Alabama’s children. Over the last 25 years, among other legislative victories, VOICES for Alabama’s Children along with our grassroots advocates and our corporate and philanthropic partners have led the way for the establishment of a Statewide Child Death Review Process resulting in a 23 percent decline in preventable child deaths, passage of the Graduated Teen Driver’s licensing law which contributed to a 29 percent decrease in teen deaths following implementation, passage of the Child Passenger Safety law which further reduced preventable child deaths by 23 percent, and passage of a revised juvenile code that reduced by 64 percent the number of low-risk, non-violent youth being incarcerated by the Department of Youth Services.

As we have traveled around the state we were honored to meet you, train with you, share with you and work with you. We know that without you we could not do the work we do or make the impact we have made to improve the well-being of Alabama’s children.

Our children of today will become our workforce of tomorrow. How we protect them speaks volumes about where we are as a state and more importantly where we are headed. Thank you for trusting us to be the voice for children since 1992. We look forward to continuing the fight with your support and partnership over the next 25 years.

Yours in advocacy,

Melanie R. Bridgeforth, MSW
Executive Director

Supporters like you made it possible for us to positively impact the lives of children in Alabama.

- Introducing the Child Care Safety Act and while it didn’t pass, it elevated the conversation around Alabama’s dual system of child care that puts the health and safety of children at risk.
- Securing an additional $13 million increase in funding for Alabama’s First Class Pre-K Program.
- Bringing healthy foods closer to home by securing $300,000 for the state’s Healthy Food Financing Program. This benefits Alabamians living in communities with limited access to fresh, healthy foods.

VOICES for Alabama’s Children was the first, and remains the only, statewide child advocacy organization to research and document the conditions of children in each of Alabama’s 67 counties through the Alabama Kids Count Data Book.

For nearly 25 years, we have worked in partnership with the Annie E. Casey Foundation to publish the Alabama Kids Count Data Book. It serves as the most trusted source of research on child well-being for nonprofits, government agencies and other organizations in Alabama – allowing them to make well-informed policy and programming decisions. Serving as both a benchmark and road map for how children are faring, the Alabama Kids Count Data Book is used to raise visibility of children’s issues, identify areas of need, set priorities in child well-being and inform decision-making at the state and local levels.

Making Kids Count Through Research

We are committed to ensuring that every need of children in Alabama counts when important policy decisions are being made. Our 2017 Alabama Kids Count Data Book allowed us to measure our successes and areas of improvement for the well-being of Alabama’s children. The Data Book allows us to set and define our advocacy efforts and resources.

The Data Book is the foundation for child advocacy efforts across the state. Local and state decision makers, grassroots advocates, organizations and media outlets rely on the Data Book to accurately depict the needs and possible solutions for Alabama’s children.

The 2017 Data Book uses four well-being domains—health, education, safety and economic security. In 2017, we offered more disaggregated data by race/ethnicity and income level. State and county data profiles, made available online through VOICES for Alabama’s Children’s website and data uploaded to the national KIDS COUNT Data Center, provide unprecedented access to historical data from every county in Alabama.

The Data Book served as the framework for the success and work we have accomplished over the past year. Through the Data Book, we were able to observe some significant successes in health care with 96 percent of all children in Alabama having some type of health coverage. However, the Data Book also revealed our state’s health care network relies heavily on Medicaid.

OUR IMPACT:

- Partnered with Children’s of Alabama to provide more than 200 copies of the 2017 Alabama Kids Count Data Book to members of the Alabama Legislature, state agency heads, agency administrators and local elected officials.
- In 2017, VOICES conducted and participated in 65 presentations or events reaching 7,000 people. Of those, 763 took action by signing petitions, letters of support or signing up for VOICES CAN.

HOW WE APPROACH RESEARCH

At the Alabama Department of Early Childhood Education, we use the Alabama Kids Count Data Book to help us describe the sociodemographic characteristics as well as the health and educational outcomes/challenges by county when writing federal grants. The data is also used to develop a needs assessment and program design. In addition, when determining funding for new Alabama First Class Pre-K grants, the data is used to establish population denominators for young children by county to understand the percentage of young children served by our programs. This supports increased service availability over time and identification of focus areas for future growth when funding allows.

Research is the critical foundation for building a case for any needed program or policy, but research alone does not inspire change. Public awareness is key in building public will and support for change. In order to build political will to create, strengthen and otherwise improve policies affecting children and families, VOICES for Alabama’s Children works to implement strategic communications strategies that balance messages, media and audiences.

Throughout the years, VOICES for Alabama’s Children has built, and continues to build, a solid foundation of public awareness through nurturing existing relationships with print and electronic media, as well as building new ones.

VOICES for Alabama’s Children also uses social media extensively to create awareness around key children’s issues. Through targeted social media campaigns, action alerts and newsletters we are able to successfully influence the conversation around children’s issues by reaching thousands of advocates from across the state to publicize our messages.

All of our public awareness efforts help build understanding and support for changes needed in our state to improve child well-being and with it the vitality of our state as a whole.

OUR IMPACT:

- VOICES core priorities were mentioned over 307 times in print media, television news, or online media, which was seen by approximately 93,650,192 people in Alabama and beyond.
- The 2017 Alabama Kids Count Data Book was mentioned in the media 42 times, which was seen by approximately 5,581,963 people in Alabama and beyond.
- In 2017, VOICES for Alabama’s Children was mentioned over 162 times in the media.
- Healthy Food Financing was mentioned in the media 27 times.
- Alabama’s First Class Pre-K was mentioned in the media 30 times in 2017.
- The issue of child care licensing in Alabama was mentioned 117 times in the media in 2017.
- In 2017, VOICES gained 1,705 new Twitter followers.
- VOICES has 2,754 followers on Facebook. Our posts were seen 649,292 times and engaged with 33,339 times.
- VOICES for Alabama’s Children’s staff collaborated and served on more than 37 national and statewide boards, coalitions and councils throughout the year.
Lifting up the voice of children to promote sound policy decisions is the heart and soul of what we do. Research and public awareness directly correlate with the core of our efforts—advocacy. At VOICES for Alabama’s Children, we advance research-backed policy solutions to give our children the Alabama they deserve.

In 2017, we continued our focus on grassroots advocacy by educating and training more than 300 advocates dedicated to improving child well-being in the state who made an impact by generating direct contacts with lawmakers. Our advocates engaged in more than 40,000 online and offline actions on potentially life changing bills for children and their families.

This year was also our Fourth Annual Child Advocacy Day. More than 200 advocates, business leaders, educators, parents and children joined forces with us urging lawmakers to keep children’s issues a top priority in Alabama.

Investing in Pre-K

For 11 consecutive years, Alabama’s First Class Pre-K program has been nationally recognized as the top program in the country for quality. Access to First Class Pre-K has increased from 25 percent during the 2016-2017 school year, to 28 percent during the 2017-2018 school year. VOICES for Alabama’s Children, as part of the Pre-K Task Force, is working to ensure all four-year-olds have access.

Because of the 1,441 pre-K and parent pre-K advocates, lawmakers again increased state investments for Alabama’s First Class Pre-K program by $13 million!

Uniform Licensing and Inspection for All

Roughly 60,000 children are born in Alabama each year, the majority of whom will experience nonparental care before entering kindergarten.

During the third week of the 2017 Regular Legislative Session, VOICES for Alabama’s Children partnered with 35 legislative champions from both sides of the aisle in both chambers to introduce landmark legislation.

In a historic effort HB277- The Child Care Safety Act, passed unanimously out of the House Children and Senior Advocacy Committee and on April 20th, members of the House overwhelmingly passed a substitute version of HB277 by a vote of 88-9. HB277 went on to pass unanimously out of the Senate Judiciary Committee. But, in the final days of the session after two failed attempts for a vote on the Senate floor, the doors closed on this much needed win for children.

Bringing Healthy Foods Closer to Home

Approximately 1.8 million Alabamians, including nearly half a million children, live in areas with limited or no access to fresh, healthy food. Our research showed that a lack of access to healthy food impacts the overall health and life expectancy of residents living in low access communities. A statewide public opinion poll found overwhelming support from Alabama voters to address healthy food access. Eighty percent support the state incentivizing food retail businesses to locate in communities with limited access to healthy foods. In 2017, lawmakers passed a budget that included $300,000 for the Healthy Food Financing Initiative. The last quarter of the year, ADECA accepted applications for this funding.

OUR IMPACT:

- In 2017, VOICES advocates sent 37,455 emails to lawmakers.
- In 2017, VOICES advocates sent 2,258 emails to lawmakers about Healthy Food Financing.
- In 2017, VOICES advocates sent 280 emails to lawmakers about Alabama First Class Pre-K.
- In 2017, VOICES advocates sent 34,560 emails to legislators, urging them to remove the child care licensing exemption and pass HB 277.
- In 2017, more than 200 advocates rallied at the state house for VOICES’ 4th Annual Child Advocacy Day.
- In 2017, we added 1,466 new supporters to VOICES Child Advocacy Network this year.
- VOICES has the support of 57 organizational members in 2017.
- VOICES provided advocacy training to nearly 300 people in 2017.
